

Cees van Gent new CEO of Van Gansewinkel Groep

11 May 2012

Cees van Gent (49) has been appointed CEO of Van Gansewinkel Groep. In addition to his role as CEO, he will have the Collection & Services division in his portfolio. With effect from Monday 14 May 2012, the Board of Directors of Van Gansewinkel Groep will comprise Cees van Gent, Rob de Fluiter Balledux (CFO) and Yves Luca (COO Recycling & Energy from Waste).

Until January 2012 Cees van Gent was CEO of international logistics company Lehnkering. Prior to that, he held various senior management posts in the logistics sector, including at Nedlloyd, Exel Logistics, ABX Logistics and DHL.

Hugo van Berckel, chairman of the Supervisory Board: 'In recent years Van Gansewinkel Groep has proved itself to be a leading innovative player in the sector. The company has transformed itself from a traditional waste service provider into a supplier of raw materials and energy. In so doing, it has achieved sound operational results. The company's strategy and vision are rock solid. As a result, the company is now able to focus on more extensive implementation and operationalization. In view of his experience and his strategic and operational leadership, Cees is the right person to lead the company through this next phase.'

Cees van Gent, CEO: 'With its activities and "Waste No More" vision, Van Gansewinkel Groep has the right fundamentals for further growth. I now look forward to working together with my new colleagues to further strengthen the company and to ensure we maintain our leading position.'
